COMPANY POLICY HANDBOOK

Sample policy document for learning and RAG demonstrations

Company: Example Technologies Pvt. Ltd. Version: 1.0 Effective date: 1 January 2026

Important Notice

This is a fictional sample document created for educational use. It is not legal advice and does not represent the official policy of any real company. Replace the sample details with your organization's approved policies before using it operationally.

1. Working Hours and Attendance

• Standard working hours are 9:30 AM to 6:00 PM, Monday through Friday, with a one-hour lunch break. Team schedules may vary depending on business needs and manager approval.

• Employees should record attendance using the company's approved attendance system. If an employee expects to be late or absent, they should notify their manager as early as reasonably possible.

• Flexible or remote work arrangements require manager approval and must follow applicable information-security and availability requirements.

2. Leave Policy

• Employees should submit planned leave requests through the HR system and obtain manager approval before making non-refundable travel arrangements.

• Employees are eligible for 18 days of paid annual leave per calendar year, subject to local law, employment terms, and applicable company rules. Leave accrual and carry-forward are administered by HR.

• For unexpected illness or emergencies, employees should inform their manager as soon as practical and submit any required documentation through HR.

• Parental, maternity, paternity, adoption, bereavement, and other statutory leave are governed by applicable law and the employee's approved terms. Contact HR for eligibility, duration, and required documents.

3. Remote Work and Equipment

• Remote work may be permitted based on role requirements, team needs, and manager approval. Employees must remain reasonably reachable during agreed working hours.

• Company devices and accounts must be used in accordance with IT and security policies. Devices should be protected with strong authentication and kept updated.

• Employees must not share confidential company information with unauthorized people or store it in unapproved personal services.

4. Code of Conduct

• Employees are expected to act respectfully, honestly, and professionally toward colleagues, customers, partners, and visitors.

• Harassment, discrimination, bullying, retaliation, threats, and deliberate misuse of company resources are prohibited.

• Concerns may be raised with a manager, Human Resources, or the designated reporting channel. Reports will be handled as discreetly as practicable and in line with applicable procedures.

5. Information Security and Privacy

• Use unique passwords and multifactor authentication where available. Never share passwords, authentication codes, or access tokens.

• Access only the data required for your role. Sensitive or personal data must be handled only for authorized business purposes and according to approved retention and privacy requirements.

• Report suspected phishing, lost devices, unauthorized access, or accidental data disclosure to IT/security promptly.

6. Expenses and Reimbursements

• Business expenses must be reasonable, work-related, and supported by itemized receipts where required.

• Expense claims should normally be submitted within 30 days of the transaction through the approved expense process.

• Pre-approval is required for travel, accommodation, client entertainment, and any expense exceeding the limits established by Finance.

7. Performance and Learning

• Managers and employees should discuss goals and performance regularly. Formal reviews are conducted according to the company's review calendar.

• Employees are encouraged to participate in role-relevant training and share knowledge with their teams.

• Questions about performance expectations, development plans, or training support should be directed to the employee's manager or HR.

8. Questions and Policy Updates

• Human Resources is the primary contact for questions about leave, benefits, employment records, and policy interpretation. IT/Security handles technology and security incidents; Finance handles expense questions.

• The company may update these sample policies when business needs or applicable requirements change. Employees should refer to the latest approved version maintained by HR.

For this sample handbook, contact points are placeholders: HR — hr@example.com; IT/Security — security@example.com; Finance — finance@example.com.